

Calls are a huge disruption to my daily routine, creating confusion between emergency and expected calls and humongous sales calls. I am taking care of a toddler and an elderly homebound person - which definitely means we can all do without the needless, exasperating additional phone calls.